

Life-threatening emergencies can occur anytime, anywhere, and to anyone! Such situations are somewhat more likely to occur within the confines of the dental office due to the increased levels of stress that are often present. In this course we will analyze the areas that are considered vital to a proper understanding of emergency medicine: prevention, preparation, recognition, and management. There will be a discussion of preparation involving the office and staff, including a thorough review of the office emergency kit. We will also explore recognition and management of emergency situations that commonly occur in dentistry, such as seizures, allergy problems, and cardiac problems (angina, myocardial infarction, and cardiac arrest).

At course end you will be able to:

1. Identify the clinical signs and symptoms of various medical emergencies and describe the corresponding procedure
2. List and describe the indications for the seven basic emergency drugs
3. Explain the basic management protocol for medical emergencies
